

Toronto's Community Health Centres

For over 30 years Toronto's Community Health Centres (CHCs) have served refugee communities. If you are sponsoring a refugee here is what Toronto's Community Health Centres can provide:

Wrap-around services tailored to refugees' needs

- Our interprofessional teams include family physicians, nurse practitioners as well as many other providers: dietitians, therapists, counsellors, mental health, social and outreach workers.
- Our health providers are trained in trauma-informed and culturally safe care.
- Some centres have language specific services and all CHCs are able to offer interpretation to their clients. Access Alliance: <http://accessalliance.ca/programs-services/language-services/>
- We connect refugees with dental services and help them navigate through other parts of the health and social service system.
- We offer chronic disease prevention and management programs tailored to specific cultural backgrounds.
- Some centres are multi-service agencies that, under one roof, also include settlement, housing and employment services.

Immediate support

- Several CHCs are working in partnership with other primary care organizations to conduct initial health assessments and begin the process of integrating new arrivals into our health care system specifically primary care.
- These clinics will ensure new refugees have access to a regular primary care provider – either a nurse practitioner or family physician.
- Many of the Toronto CHCs will be able to take on new refugees and provide them with ongoing primary care.

Programs that support a complete sense of health and wellbeing

CHCs work to ensure newcomers feel welcomed. We offer many programs that combat social isolation and create a positive settlement experience, for example:

- Early Years programs
- Special programs for youth, new mothers, and seniors
- Peer support groups
- Recreational and leisure activities: for example community gardens, walking groups, art and cooking classes
- Counselling for LGBT newcomers
- Financial literacy programs
- Pathways to Education
- Participation in centre initiatives advocacy efforts
